

Professor Adisa Azapagic MBE FREng FICChemE FRSC HonFSE CEng CSci

Adisa Azapagic is a Professor of Sustainable Chemical Engineering at the University of Manchester. Her research interests include sustainable production and consumption, life cycle sustainability assessment and corporate sustainability. She leads Sustainable Industrial Systems, an internationally leading multidisciplinary research group, working in close collaboration with industry, policy makers and other stakeholders to help identify and implement sustainable solutions to present sustainability challenges. Adisa is the Founding Editor-in-Chief of Sustainable Production and Consumption and Editor-in-Chief of Process Safety and Environmental Protection.